

§ 18.40.030. Land use chart—Directions for use.

The land use chart is divided into five categories of uses: public, residential, special, commercial and industrial. In order to determine the zone in which a specific use of land is permitted or conditionally allowed, application and use of the chart is as follows:

- A. Find the specific land use in one of the categories in Section 18.40.040 under the "Land Use" column.
- B. Read across the chart until either a "number" or "X" appears.
- C. If an "X" appears in a zone column, this means that the specific land use is permitted in the particular zone represented by the column in which the "X" appears, without being subject to any of the special conditions or limitations set forth in subsection B of Section 18.40.050.
- D. If a "number" appears in a zone column, this means that the specific land use is allowed in the particular zone represented by the column in which the "number" appears, but only under certain conditions. The conditions applicable to such land use are those set forth in subsection B of Section 18.40.050.
- E. If more than one "number" appears in a zone column, this means that the specific land use is allowed in the particular zone represented by the column in which the "numbers" appear, and such land use is subject to all special conditions set forth in subsection B of Section 18.40.050.
- F. If an "X" or "number" does not appear in a zone column, this means that the specific land use is expressly prohibited in the particular zone represented by the empty column.
- G. Any use of land not specifically enumerated in the five land use categories, but which could be considered as a compatible use in a particular zone classification, shall be subject to determination by the zoning administrator, as set forth in Sections 18.06.090 through 18.06.110 of this title, relative to ambiguities and interpretations.
