PORTHCAWL

Porthcawl is an affluent coastal resort and commuter town located 25 miles west of Cardiff and 19 miles south-east of Swansea. The town benefits from being approximately 3.5 miles south of the M4 motorway, with Junction 37 providing access to the UK motorway network.

Cardiff International Airport is located approximately 23 miles to the west and provides scheduled flights to numerous UK and European cities

Porthcawl has a resident population of 16,000 - but with over 1 million people living within 45 minutes drive and a large tourism base - this population is boosted significantly throughout the year – with over 1,000,000 visits a year.

The town is the premier resort on the Glamorgan Heritage Coastline in South Wales. Its sandy Blue Flag beaches, attractive coastline and tourist facilities, together with the burgeoning water sports industry makes it a very popular destination for holidaymakers and day trippers. The town also sits in one of the most attractive parts of the newly formed - Wales Coastal Path and is home to the world famous Royal Porthcawl Golf Club. The £3.5M, 70 berth Marina has also just been completed within the town.

Other major attractions include the Edwardian Grand Pavilion, which is an Art Deco Grade II Listed Building on the waterfront, attracting over 77,500 visitors through a busy programme of performances.

This vibrant combination has made Porthcawl a focus for a strong events programme - including the Celtic Festival in March, Jazz on the Beach in April, the Splash Up Surfing Camp; Cycling competitions as well as the internationally renowned Porthcawl Elvis Festival.

The overall result of this activity is that the residential population of Porthcawl is boosted by over 1 million visitors a year.
