THRIVES HERE

Opportunity Thrives Here.

At its core, AllianceTexas is a story of transformation, innovation and enduring prosperity.

Three decades ago, the pioneers at Hillwood had a vision: to transform wheat fields on the edge of Fort Worth into a world-class, master-planned development. A destination businesses and residents alike would call home. Where groundbreaking industrial and technological innovators work in harmony alongside leaders of Fortune 500 companies. A place to work, prosper and live in the heart of one of the nation's fastest-growing metropolitan areas.

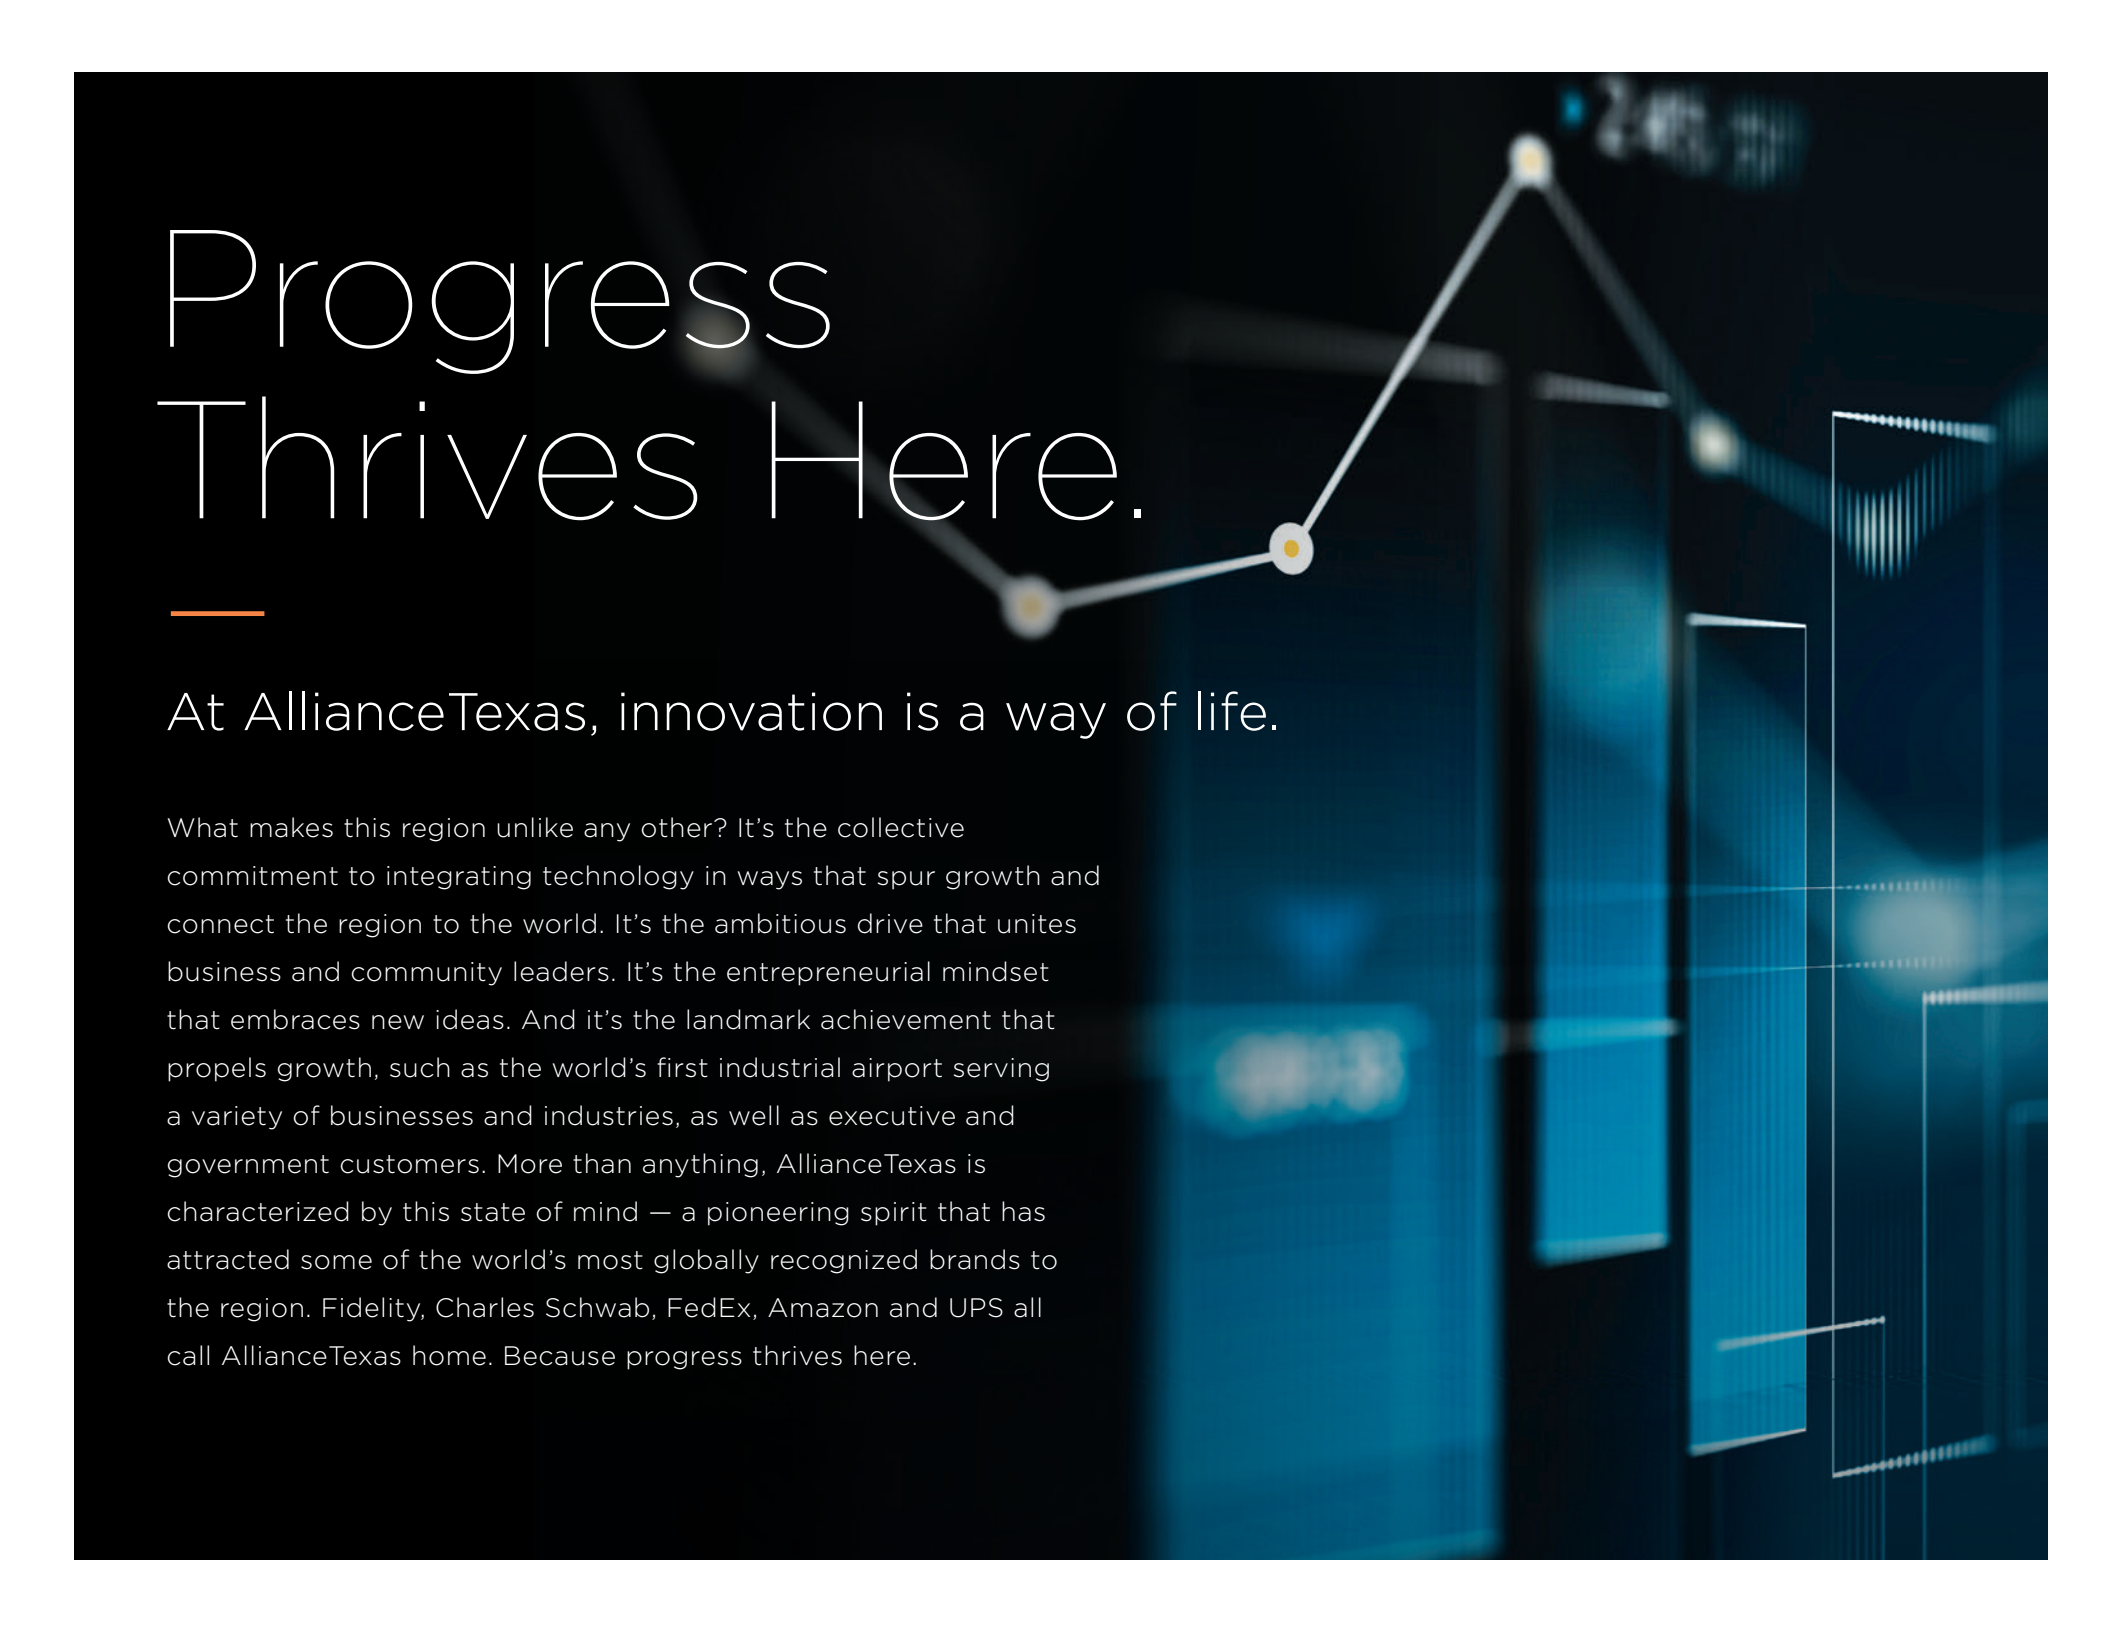

Today that pioneering vision is a reality. And the unique sum of its many compelling parts makes AllianceTexas an attractive prospect for investment and new growth. It's no less an attractive proposition today than it was in 1988. AllianceTexas leads the North Texas region in job creation and economic stimulus. It thrives with new residents and communities. It is home to innovation and advancement that will drive prosperity and opportunity for decades to come.

How did the region get its name?

Fort Worth Alliance Airport, the foundational development at AllianceTexas, is the product of a unique partnership between the visionaries at Hillwood, the city of Fort Worth and the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA). The term “Alliance” best characterizes the cooperation between private and public entities that created this dynamic region.

Progress Thrives Here.

At AllianceTexas, innovation is a way of life.

What makes this region unlike any other? It's the collective commitment to integrating technology in ways that spur growth and connect the region to the world. And it's the landmark achievement that propels growth, such as the world's first industrial airport serving a variety of businesses and industries, as well as executive and government customers. The Perot family's strategic vision has guided Hillwood since its inception, beginning with AllianceTexas.

Why was Hillwood confident of AllianceTexas' success when it broke ground in 1988? It goes back to the No. 1 rule in real estate: location. Where other investors saw open land and wheat fields, Hillwood identified an opportunity. It saw progress. An open prairie became a national success story and an engine of innovation and economic stimulus. That's what Hillwood does best. Identify opportunity and create the conditions and partnerships to ensure success. It's a formula that plays out again and again at AllianceTexas, and Hillwood is just getting started.

THE PATH OF PROGRESS.”
