The Property

The Elephants Head occupies the ground and basement floors of this attractive character 4-storey Victorian terraced property.

Having a rustic feel internally, the trade areas comprise of an open plan public bar with stripped wooden flooring. To the rear is a dining area with fixed leather back seating and free standing tables and chairs providing seating for circa 50. Ancillary areas include a catering kitchen on the ground floor to the rear with a small external storage yard. In the basement there are customer WC's, a small office and a beer cellar.

A particular feature of the property is the many salvaged architectural features including a mosaic elephants head, a barrel domed stained glass window from a cinema in Victoria, a door from Clerkenwell prison and part wooden panelled walls. An internal inspection of the property is highly recommended to fully appreciate it. For further information please browse through the business website www.elephanthackney.com

Business

Having been refurbished and restored by the current tenant approximately 4 years ago, The Elephant's Head now trades as a popular free of tie neighbourhood pub and restaurant serving a wide range of beers, wines, spirits and cocktails as well as being well known locally for its popular Sunday roasts.

The pub has good all week trade and is particularly popular at the weekends. The business's excellent reputation has been built steadily over the years and a new owner will immediately benefit from the pub's good reputation and steady stream of clientele all set within a friendly and informal atmosphere.
