This is an aerial photograph of a highway interchange. A red line traces a path through the map, starting from the bottom left, moving north along a highway, then turning east to follow a road that runs parallel to the highway. This red line passes through a residential area on the left, a commercial area with several large buildings in the center, and a large undeveloped area on the right. A blue line with arrows indicates a specific route, starting from the highway, turning east onto a road, then turning north onto another road, and finally turning east onto a third road. Three callout boxes with white lines pointing to specific locations are present. Road names are labeled in white text along the roads.
