Location

The town of Godalming is a short ten-minute drive due South from Guildford in the heart of Surrey. The town is surrounded by greenbelt and farmland, being one of a series of small towns throughout the Surrey Hills. Other nearby towns within a fifteen-minute drive are Milford, Haslemere, Bramley, Shackleford and others. The town is connected to the rest of Surrey by local bus network, as well as national rail connections running north to south between London and Portsmouth. Situated close to the centre of Godalming, Huxley House benefits from being within walking distance of Sainsbury's, Waitrose and other local shops and retail offerings.

Description

The building is ringed externally with a large car park having forty spaces for the building. Internally a modern, open lobby at the entrance opens up on to two sets of double doors for access to the ground floor offices, with a stairwell and lift to the rear leading to the second floor. Open-plan with in-floor electrical and internet sockets, as well as modern fluorescent tubing category-2 lighting and well maintained tile carpeting. A new tenant would have the option to partition internally as they see fit.
