After people and products, the third most important component to many businesses is property. Your property sets your image to your customer, the mood and energy of your team, their productive capacity and creativity. In short your building has a very direct impact on your business performance and profitability.

The Beacon

In Hull and the region there is a very limited supply of grade 'A' office space and the opportunity to build buildings of this standard and quality is rarely possible.

As our national economy grows there are many local businesses with aspirations to expand. The best businesses, businesses that this area vitally needs to create wealth and jobs, need great buildings. This makes the Beacon a very important new headquarter development for the region's economy.

The Beacon provides close proximity to the city centre and fast access to our national motorways, ports and airports. Conveniently situated on the main western route into Hull next to the A63 Clive Sullivan Way, The Beacon has a prominent position that is passed by over 45,000 vehicles each day, giving you the opportunity to run your business in a prime location.

Is your current office serving you well enough?

Does your current office energize your people/team/workforce?

Is your company image important, and does your office support that?

Does your current office ensure your team is as productive as they can be?

Is great access important to your staff, visitors and your business profitability?
